Prepare your questions in advance by interview, or textHave The APA style manual shows that you should only include electronic book references if the book is only available online or very difficult to find in print. Your reference will be similar to a regular print book reference, except electronic recovery information replaces the publisher's location and name. For example: Freud, S(1922). Totem und Tabu: Einige Übereinstimmungen im Seelenleben der Wilden und der Neuroticier [Kindle Edition]. The basic structure should be followed to cite online documentation received from messages posted by users on forums, discussion lists and newsgroups. When possible, use the real name of the poster starting with the last name and after a first initial. If this is not possible, list the author's online screen name. You should also include the exact date the message was posted. For example: Leptin, J.L. (2006, November 16). Study tips for psychology students [online forum comments]. should not be included in your reference section received from the email, although they should be quoted in-text. The APA also provides information about the preferred spelling of several electronic words, including the following: e-mail-journalDataBaselnnetTPOnlineWeb APA format is hanging, but it's worth the investment. Special consideration is required on electronic sources because the format of your references may differ depending on where you found the information. Use this guide as a beginner, but be sure to always check your work against the guidelines issued in the official APA style manual. Thanks for your feedback! What are your concerns?
